MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 7, 1864.

Death of Rev. Thos. Starr King.

The first through dispatch from California comes to us like a funeral knell, for it announces the sudden death of one of the most faithful and useful men on the Pacific Coast. In the prime of life, with all the powers of his affluent genius fully and admirably developed, bearing an influence most weighty and beneficial, and surrounded and sustained by ardent and enthusiastic friends, Thomas Starr King has obeyed the summons which sooner or later calls all humanity to immortality. Of his life in detail, we cannot now write, except to state that he was born in New York, Dec. 16th, 1824, while a child went with his father, to Massachusetts, began to preach in September 1845, and came to San Francisco in 1860; from that time, our readers know his history, his eminent service to society, his large hearted philanthropy and his prompt and fearless advocacy of every cause which he believed likely to bless or benefit his follow men.

His ministerial career was attended with great success, not perhaps because of the theories or doctrines of his theology, but rather for the reason that his ability and his spirit of practical christianity won for him deserved admiration. He seemed to care comparatively very little about sect or party, and as cheerfully gave his time and the power of his wonderful talents, to the advancement of the interests of a Presbyterian, Methodist or Baptist society or church, as if he belonged to either. His happiness appeared to consist in making others happy. This was the secret of his great personal popularity, and gave to him the generous and warm confidence of men of all creeds and denominations. Especially did the great and holy cause of the Union find in Mr. King an earnest and eloquent defender. To him more, perhaps, than to any other, belonged the credit of arousing and giving force to the lofty and united patriotism, which illustrated the Pacific Coast in 1861, for then, when men's hearts were failing them for fear and anxiety,—when treason was stealthily gaining ground and the loyal hardly knew what to do, he seemed to feel an invincible impulse and his clarion voice inspired thousands with new and lively energy—taught them more justly to appreciate the manifold and priceless blessings of liberty and of the Union, and kindled an ardent enthusiasm which has not yet turned backward or been chilled. He felt that the life and honor of every man, every family, and every institution were bound up in the existence and integrity of the Republic, and he impressed his belief so distinctly and effectively upon the whole community, that nearly all sympathy with rebellion, and indifference to the nation's welfare disappeared or was hidden by the grand and hearty demonstrations of loyalty, in which he always took a glad and prominent part, and made the exhibition of patriotism a cause of its growth and greater power. Mr. King was an unflinching, inflexible opponent of slavery, as he was of every form of tyranny over the mind of man; he deemed it the cause of the war, and his anxious and earnest hope was that the war would result in its entire abolition. His hopeful vision discerned in "the new nation to issue out of the war," a free people, whose bright fame should no longer be stained with the dark blot of human bondage. His life was not spared that he might behold his expectations realised, or enjoy on earth the full fruit of his exertions in the cause of his country and of freedom, but the day is fast coming, in which his glorified spirit from the upper sanctuary shall witness, with thanksgiving, the redemption and the salvation of the native land he loved so devotedly, so sublimely.

The grave has claimed all that was mortal of our brother, our friend, our defender. Yesterday, as our dispatch this morning informs us, amid universal and heartfelt sorrow, his body was placed beneath the altar of the new church just erected for him by a loving and devoted congregation. "Being dead, he yet speaketh," bidding us all to be faithful to God, to our country and our fellow men. His eloquent words, his consistent example, his fervid patriotism, his love for all mankind—all these should abide and grow in every heart on this coast, thus tending to make it, as he often said it was sure to become—"the Eden of America."

The Guilt of Northern Sympathizers.

All good citizens condemn crime, and are anxious to secure its punishment. Murderers, robbers and incendiaries are justly denounced by them, and they would no more think of justifying or sympathizing with such criminals than they would of doing similar deeds themselves. Yet at this time, it is astonishing to find in our State, and throughout the North, men professing to be law-abiding, virtuous and even pious, who apologise for treason, and say that among the rebels in arms against the Government are to be found respectable, honorable and christian people. How can this be? What so strangely perverts and overthrows conscience and duty? Surely no one can deny that treason includes every other crime and outrage. It commits murder by wholesale; it robs everywhere; it burns towns and ships and steamers, and it makes its followers expert in all the enormous wickedness which sin has invented. It does all this necessarily as a part of its work, for it is the crowning and abundant combination of violence and of wrong. Now if it is so full of abominable crime, how can men claiming to be good citizens justify or excuse it? How can they help opposing it in every possible mode, with all their strength and influence? We can see very little difference between the commission and the endorsement of a monstrous crime. If a man justifies or sympathizes with traitors, he does so because he loves treason, and we therefore have a right to regard the Northern sympathizer—no matter what his standing or profession may be—precisely as we do the Southern rebel: both are traitors and labor and strive according to their opportunities for the triumph of treason. Both oppose the Government, and that very opposition is a proof, strong and visible, that they desire its overthrow; and would rejoice in its submission to the demands of the rebellion. Northern men must choose their own positions; there are but two sides: if they justify the South, they are murderers, robbers, scoundrels at heart. If they oppose the Government, they are traitors, and treason is the highest and the vilest of all crimes.

A REBEL EDITOR IN PRISON.—Our readers have heard of DeBow, the leading editor in the rebel States, who in the beginning of the great conspiracy defended it and justified slavery as the corner stone of the Confederacy. It was hardly likely that such a man could provoke the wrath of his leaders, but so it is; he is now in prison, and his Review has been suppressed. His offence was that he published an article at Richmond, which argues that the Confederacy cannot stand against the Federal Government. He says the production of cotton is slipping away from them, and that they do not raise cereals enough to feed themselves. He asks: "If the negro will not raise enough to feed himself and his master, what is the use of the negro? If we are not permitted to avail ourselves of the high qualities of the negro, and found a superior civilization upon him, why should we not accept the civilization which belongs to people in general, founded upon the dignity as well as usefulness of labor?"

We quote again DeBow's language:

"We will say to Congress and to President Davis, that a careful study of the last 'Census Report of the United States' will correct or destroy many perturbations in their minds as well as our own. Let them legislate so as to increase the number of cows, and think no more of the negro. The land, then, instead of being desolated by war, and the inhabitants gaunt with privation and misery, will flow literally with milk and honey, as in times of yore. But, above all, what progress have we made? Is the slave power more secure than before we seceded? Are we in such a condition as to promise ourselves, even with repudiation of all debts, both at home and abroad, exemption from duties and high taxation? What have we to hope for, both as regards slavery or the prospects of the Southern Confederacy?"

For promulgating these truths, DeBow has been imprisoned and the publication of his Review stopped. All this is well, and he has got no more than he deserved for his past misdeeds in writing up rebellion. He will be a good man when he comes out.

OREGON CITY, March 6th, 1864.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

A paper in your city yesterday, in trying to prove that the Union party is a new one, and has nothing to do with the Republican organization, asks this question: "If nine men were brokers and a tenth a boot-maker, and the ten should quit their occupations and form a partnership for running a saw-mill, which would the association be, an association of brokers or a firm of boot-makers? Our opinion is that it would be neither, but a milling company." I do not propose to question this wise conclusion but simply to suggest that if the brokers continued to carry on their business as before, after the boot-maker came into the concern to make more money than he could by his old trade, it would be somewhat imprudent for him to demand that the business should be called by a new name. The Union party is doing just what the Republicans were—is completing the work begun by them. In many States, it is still the old organization, without any change of name, for the Republican platform and party were as true to the Union, as any can be. There is no change of business as supposed in the above question, and I think the editor who put it, will have to try again, before he convinces anybody that there was anything in the Republican party, of which any true Unionman need to be ashamed. I dare to think also that it is rather bold for new converts, who have tried in the Democratic party to destroy the Union, to set up as managers of those who for years have been seeking to save the free institutions of the land from the curse of slavery and the power of Democracy, its ally and defender. B. H. B.

WHY IS THIS?—G. S. Smith, Treasurer of Virginia, under the loyal Government, thus states what is John M. Botts' view of matters:

In a conversation with Botts, he stated that never for a single instant during the war has he doubted the final result. His opinion of General McClellan is not at all complimentary to that gentleman, whom he regards, if not positively disloyal at heart, at least in the light of an ambitious aspirant for undeserving honors. Botts stated that he believed that "the majority of the rebel army regarded McClellan as being as truly devoted to their interests as Robert E. Lee," and that a man who would not, when his name was used in connection with Davis, Vallandigham, Wood, and others of the same political complexion, come out boldly and disclaim the association, was totally unfit to be commander of a Union army.

WHY THE WAR GOES ON.—The soldiers at Helena, in Arkansas, used to amuse the inhabitants of that place, on their first arrival by telling them yarns, of which the following is a sample:

"Some time ago Jeff Davis got tired of the war and invited President Lincoln to meet him on neutral ground to discuss the terms of peace. They met accordingly, and after a talk, concluded to settle the war by dividing the territory and stopping the fighting. The North took the Northern States, and the South the Gulf and seaboard Southern States. Lincoln took Texas and Missouri, and Davis Kentucky and Tennessee; so that all were parcelled off excepting Arkansas. Lincoln didn't want it—Jeff wouldn't have it. Neither would consent to take it, and on that they split; and the war has been going on ever since."

THE RIGHT WAY.—General Grant, it is said, has forwarded to Washington his views on the way the war should be conducted in future to insure the earliest and most complete suppression of the rebellion. These views are reported to be, the concerted movement of all our armies under one policy, and, as far as practicable, under one direction. In a word, let there be less scattering fire and more concentration of purposes. A more consistent policy would also prove of great public benefit.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The New Orleans Era has the following: Galveston news announces that the gunboats Harriet Lane and Clifton and the bark Cavallo were sold at auction on the 10th February.

A special dispatch to the Herald, dated March 3d, says: Intelligence from the Army of the Potomac, dated half-past nine o'clock this morning, says: A messenger who left Kilpatrick's command 10 miles south of Hanover Junction, Wednesday morning, says the command has most thoroughly and effectually destroyed the Virginia Central Railroad from Beaver Dam to Hanover, and from Mattapony Bridge to the Pamunkey River. It is reported that Kilpatrick has found the country through which he passed almost destitute of food, for man or beast; and as his troops went in light marching order, he had been compelled to push forward with all possible speed.

The Tribune's special dispatch from Washington says Kilpatrick reached Louis Court House on Monday night.

He destroyed the Railroad for several miles and hurried towards Richmond Wednesday morning.

He has 5,200 picked men, and several mounted batteries; and for rapidity of movement marches in three columns.

HALIFAX, March 3d.—Thirteen Austrian men of war have been ordered to sea, to protect German merchantmen.

A Danish frigate in the English Channel, has overhauled a number of German vessels.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—Rev. T. Starr King died at a quarter past 8 o'clock this morning, of diptheria. The Legislature and Courts have adjourned, in consequence, and the whole State is in mourning.

Steamer Panama sailed with 800 passengers for Portland.

LATEST.

MARYSVILLE, March 5th.

TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN:

Our citizens generally congratulate you on the completion of telegraphic communication, which they regard as at once the pioneer and assurance of a railroad connection that will unite more closely by developing more largely the interests of both our cities and our States.

Pressure of business over the line prevents my sending more than a summary of Eastern intelligence:

NEW YORK, March 5.—A Key West letter, dated February 27th, reports that Admiral Farragut had opened fire on Fort Morgan, and gives a rumor that Beauregard is in command at Mobile. The obstructions in the harbor are similar to those at Charleston.

The Committee on the Conduct of the War have been investigating the conduct of Gen. Meade at the battle of Gettysburg. Generals Sickles and Doubleday testified that after the 1st of July Meade wrote orders to fall back 17 miles, and but for the rebels attacking sooner than was expected the retreat would have been ordered.

The Times special to-day says the President has summoned Gen. Meade before him to answer the charge, and that the matter is assuming a rather serious aspect.

Gen. Butler telegraphs that Kilpatrick arrived within our lines on the 2d of March, with a loss of less than 150 men—among whom are Cols. Dahlgren, Cook and Litchfield, supposed to be prisoners. Kilpatrick succeeded in cutting Lee's railroad and telegraphic communications with Richmond, by tearing up the rails on the Central Railroad at various points. He destroyed a canal and mill on James river, and burned much other property. He was met by the enemy outside of the defences of Richmond, and succeeded in forcing him inside of the outer works. A spirited engagement ensued, which darkness came on and put an end to the conflict. Finding the enemy's works too strong to allow him to reach the city and accomplish the object of the expedition, he withdrew and reached Gen. Butler's lines in safety.

CHICAGO, March 5.—A fire at Erie, Pa., yesterday, destroyed the Reed House and other adjoining buildings. Loss about $200,000.

A delegation of Creoles, from Louisiana, called on the President yesterday. They presented a petition signed by over 1,000 citizens, asking for the rights guaranteed them by the French Government when the State was ceded to the United States.

MONTREAL, March 4.—An explosion took place at the military magazine to-day. Several persons are supposed to be killed, as 10 or 12 are missing.

NEW YORK, March 5.—It is stated that a Commissioner has arrived in this city with authority from the Imperial Regency in Mexico to act as its commercial agent. In this case no exequatur will be required from our Government nor is it necessary to obtain one.

The Tribune's Washington special of the 4th says: A dispatch dated Memphis, February 18th, received this evening, gives some new and interesting details of Sherman's movements: Having reached Meridian, Sherman sent out scouts to ascertain whether Logan, who had started from Florida to meet him, and Smith and Grierson, on whose cavalry he relied to prosecute his march on Selma, were advancing. Three days elapsed before he received an answer, but as his army had been on short rations, he, by a rapid movement which disconcerted the rebels considerably, turned towards Aberdeen and Columbus, in the richest part of Eastern Mississippi, where his army was supplied with fresh provisions. By this movement he turned his back on Selma and Mobile and marched toward Logan, who had already advanced, and by an audacious stroke of strategy placed himself at a distance of about 100 miles from Johnston whose flank is now menaced by his advance. The dispatch says that the rumors spread concerning an attack upon Mobile and Selma by Sherman were simply to divert public attention from the real object of the expedition, which aims at the invasion of Georgia somewhere between Fronton and Lafayette.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Matamoras, from New Orleans February 25th, has arrived:

An accident occurred on the Opeldousas Railroad, injuring 22 persons.

Matamoras dates are to the 20th. A large number of vessels, including several steamers, were loading with cotton for Europe.

Cortinas keeps 700 men employed in protecting the highways from highwaymen.

The French expected an attack on Matamoras, but Cortinas will hold out to the last.

Small-pox prevailed to an alarming extent at Brownsville.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—At 9:50 this morning a severe shock of an earthquake was felt, lasting one and three-fourths seconds. Oscillations were from north to south. No serious damage was occasioned. Vibrations were also felt in Sacramento and elsewhere at the same time.

All the flags in the city are at half-mast in respect for the memory of Rev. T. Starr King.

Harpending, another of the Chapman pirates will take the oath of allegiance and be released on Monday.

Gold in New York yesterday 161¼.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The body of Rev. T. Starr King lay in state in his Church on Geary street from 12 to 4 o'clock yesterday, and was visited by multitudes of people. In the evening it was taken in charge by the Military and Masonic Committee of Honor. The funeral services took place to-day at two o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Kittredge performing the religious portion. The musical portion of the ceremonies were particularly impressive, being executed by nearly the whole vocal and instrumental talent of the city. The Grand Lodge of Free Masons of the State, of which deceased was Grand Orator for the present year, performed the burial rites of the fraternity and the body was placed beneath the altar of the Church of which Mr. King was pastor. Gen. Wright, having received orders from the War Department to that effect, caused minute guns to be fired from the Federal forts during the ceremonies.

Owing to an interruption of the eastern line east of Salt Lake last evening we have no late eastern intelligence.

Arrived—Steamer Senator, from San Pedro, and ship Granada, from Valparaiso.

Oregon City Precinct Meeting.

The Union voters of Oregon City Precinct met at the Court-House, March 5th, 1864, to choose thirteen delegates to the County Convention.

N. W. Randall, Esq., was chosen Chairman, Hon. Septimus Huelat, Secretary, and James Winston, Assistant Secretary. After balloting had commenced, Mr. Huelat retired from the meeting, and J. E. Hurford was chosen to act in his stead.

The following named gentlemen were then selected by ballot as delegates to the County Convention:—Owen Wade, Wm. Barlow, W. P. Burns, S. F. Beals, Forbes Barclay, A. L. Lovejoy, J. D. Locey, Fred. Charman, Wm. Mullins, W. W. Buck, L. D. C. Latourette, J. D. Miller and P. M. Rinearson.

W. C. Johnson, W. W. Buck, W. A. Starkweather, A. L. Lovejoy, and J. D. Locey, who had during the proceedings been appointed a Committee on Resolutions, reported the following:

Resolved, That in the civil warfare which is now being waged in our nation we know no issues except the preservation or destruction of our government; that we recognize no parties except those who are for our country or against it.

Resolved, That there is no interest which is not subservient to the public good; no right of person or property which is not subordinate to the public safety.

Resolved, That we doubt not at the measures of the Administration for the suppression of the rebellion, but endorse them fully and unqualifiedly—especially the emancipation and amnesty proclamations.

Resolved, That we are opposed to all compromise with rebels; and that we demand of them unconditional submission and obedience to the Constitution and Government of the United States.

Resolved, That to the Administration is entrusted the maintenance of the unity of the Great Republic; and that to this end we invoke the Administration to employ all the means in its power, having regard only to the usages of civilized warfare.

Resolved, That we are in favor of such men only for offices of honor and profit, as will pledge themselves to an unqualified support of the leading measures of the present Administration, employed with a view to the suppression of the rebellion and the preservation of the Union.

Resolved, That we are in favor of a law allowing payment of taxes in United States Legal Tender Notes.

Resolved, As our country is one geographically, and has been one in a common history, she shall be one in a common destiny of Union and Freedom.

On motion the report was unanimously adopted.

Voted to send the minutes of the proceedings to the daily papers of Portland for publication.

On motion adjourned.

N. W. RANDALL, Chairman.

J. E. HURFORD, JAS. WINSTON, Sec'ys.

Abiqua Precinct Meeting.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at a meeting of Union voters of Abiqua precinct, Marion county, March 5th:

Resolved, That in Abraham Lincoln we recognize the noblest work of God—an honest man—leading his country through seas of blood to the goal of universal emancipation.

Resolved, That there are but two issues before the American people: the one is Abraham Lincoln and his entire policy for crushing out rebellion; the other ain't. We support the former.

Resolved, That the man who is afraid to endorse these sentiments openly and above board, we are afraid to endorse at the polls; and more than that, we won't do it.

Resolved, That every precinct in the county shall have the right to select its own delegate to the State Convention, and also the right to present its own preference for legislators and other officers before they are nominated by the County Convention.

Resolved, That the currency that is good enough to pay the brave soldiers who are defending our flag and country, is good enough to pay State and County taxes, notwithstanding the decisions of our judges.

The delegates chosen to the County Convention were Samuel Allen, Major Magone, L. L. Thomas, J. H. Banghman, Oliver Grace.

BENJ. CLEAVER, Chairman.

W. M. CLINE, Secretary.

SANITARY FUND RECEIPTS.—From citizens of Portland, contributed at Rev. Mr. Pearne's address, $103 in coin, $41 in currency.

From "The Fields," coin, $10.

An error was made last week in the acknowledgment of money collected at Corvallis by Mr. Pearne: instead of $153 in currency, the amount paid was $105 in currency and $63 12 in coin. A. HOLBROOK.

THEN AND NOW.—We will cite a case to show the difference of time between obtaining news in Portland to-day, and in the early years. In September, 1846, the Oregon Spectator, a small sheet published twice a month in Oregon City, announced the arrival of fifteen or sixteen emigrants at that place from the States," who "brought with them papers from various places, of dates up to the 23d of April." From those papers the Spectator obtained its first news, for that year. The same party of emigrants brought a report that the bill giving Great Britain the required years' notice of the termination of the joint occupancy of Oregon, had finally passed the United States Senate. Although brought from so far, across the open deserts and sands of the Great Plains of America, this intelligence was of stirring importance to the sparse settlements of Oregon, at that time. But how much more important it must be now, to ourselves, and the pioneers of those days who yet remain among us, to sit comfortably at the breakfast table and read of events transpiring yesterday in the Atlantic cities. Saturday evening at 4:30 o'clock the first dispatch flashed across the country between San Francisco and Portland—it was a private dispatch to Messrs. Ladd & Tilton. An hour later and Superintendent Haines received: "Glad to hear from you!" etc., from Superintendent Gamble, in San Francisco. A little while after, and the printers in the OREGONIAN office were at work setting up a special dispatch containing intelligence of what was going on the vicinity of Richmond, and along the lines of the National forces, the day before; and at six o'clock the news boys were on the streets of Portland carrying the OREGONIAN EXTRA, with news twenty hours from New York. We can now note the battles of our armies while the strife still rages, and will be able to hear the final results almost at the same time they are announced in Washington and New York.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the Committee of Arrangements on the Telegraph Celebration, at the Pioneer Hotel this evening [illegible] their plans for a demonstration [illegible] evening. Several dispatches have [illegible] over the wire, from the Mayor [illegible] Department and citizens generally [illegible] of San Francisco and Portland [illegible] San Francisco Fire Department [illegible] prominent men, to which answers [illegible] to-day. The Firemen of [illegible] prepared an additional [illegible] for use in their part of the [illegible] have only been [illegible] that is to call them out. Speeches will be made, and a good time generally [illegible].

DEPARTURE [illegible].—The steamship Bro[illegible] Saturday for San Francisco, going by the way of Victoria [illegible] treasure, as follows: [illegible] Wells, Fargo & Co. $60,000; Ladd & [illegible] Allen & Lewis, [illegible] very large amount [illegible] passengers, of which [illegible] freight consisted [illegible] of apples from here, and about 50 tons for Victoria.

STOLEN.—[illegible] Thursday evening a little before [illegible] black beaver cape overcoat was stolen from Messrs. Bochtel & Cardwell's [illegible] First street. The thief is supposed [illegible] direction of the lower [illegible] a large brass key was [illegible] the Multnomah Market, that belonged [illegible] M. Bochtel, the [illegible] apprehension of the [illegible] readily be identified by [illegible] silver, and a few dim spots of [illegible] upon it.

AN ARDENT SPIRITUALIST was "circulating" at the upper end of Front street yesterday. He presented a sorry appearance, as the spirit that moved him was "[illegible] foot" whisky, and had [illegible] influence, which brought the subject into contact with the filth of street several times. He at last retired to a well near by, and settled down on the dryest spot he could find. But that wouldn't do, and the landlord had him led out into the street again. Verily "the way of the transgressor is hard."

THE steamer Julia arrived at the Cascades on Friday too late to return that night, and in consequence of the darkness laid there until the following morning. She arrived at her dock in this city on Saturday, was loaded, and again visited the Cascades that evening. She returned yesterday, and will leave at the usual hour this morning. There is no apparent decrease in her loadings, always taking what she can carry of stock.

THE Wilson G. Hunt took to the Cascades on Saturday 100 passengers and 90 tons of freight. The number of passengers down was limited. Mr. West, Messenger of W. F. & Co. reports $3,000 only, in treasure. The high winds on the upper Columbia had prevented the arrival of the steamer at Celilo, consequently there was no connection above the Dalles.

QUICK WORK.—A fight occurred in the city on Saturday evening, between a couple of "bar-keeps," in which one of them received a pretty sore head, and the other a fine of $25 and costs, before Recorder McCoy. All of which occurred between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock P. M.

WHEAT.—The steamer Senator started from Oregon City on Saturday with fifty tons of freight, mostly wheat for Milwaukie. She brought forty passengers, most of whom arrived at Canemah on the Onward, just before her departure.

A heavily loaded truck was broken on Front street, Saturday. By keeping too near the side-walk, to avoid the rotten planking of the street, a wheel struck an awning post at the Vancouver Brewery, and the consequence was a general smash up.

THE bark Helen W. Almy is to leave on Wednesday, she will take a large lot of apples, and the prospect is that the supply will be materially reduced, of those on hand for shipment.

STEAMER EXPECTED.—The steamship Pana[illegible], which sailed from San Francisco on last Saturday evening, for Portland, is expected to arrive to-morrow. She brings a host of passengers.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the Committee of Arrangements of the Telegraph Celebration, at the Pioneer Hotel this evening, to perfect their plans for the celebration to-morrow evening. Several dispatches have been forwarded over the wire, from the Mayor, Fire Department and citizens generally, to the Mayors of San Francisco and Portland, Maine, to the San Francisco Fire Department, and prominent men, to which answers may be received to-day. The Firemen of the city have prepared an additional number of torches, etc., for use in their part of the procession, and have only been waiting for the flash of lightning that is to call them out. Speeches will be made, and a good time generally is expected.

DEPARTURE OF THE STEAMSHIP.—The steamship Brother Jonathan left at 5 P. M. Saturday for San Francisco, going by the way of Victoria. She took $77,000 in treasure, as follows: by Wells Fargo & Co., $60,000; Ladd & Tilton $11,000, Allen & Lewis, $6,000. It is presumed that very large amounts went in the hands of passengers, of whom there was a number. Her freight consisted of 9,400 boxes of apples from here, and about 30 tons for Victoria.

STOLEN OVERCOAT.—Thursday evening a little before dark a black beaver cape overcoat was stolen from Messrs. Buchtel & Cardwell's Gallery on First street. The thief is supposed to have gone in the direction of the lower part of the city, as a large brass key was found near the Multnomah Market, that belonged with the coat. Mr Buchtel, the owner, will pay $25 for the apprehension of the thief. The coat might possibly be identified by slight stains of nitrate of silver, and a few dim spots of white paint upon it.

AN ARDENT SPIRITUALIST was "circulating" at the upper end of Front street yesterday. He presented a sorry appearance, as the spirit that moved him was "tangle foot" whisky, and had an uncontrollable influence, which brought the subject into contact with the filth of street several times. He at last retired to a wall near by and settled down on the dryest spot he could find. But that wouldn't do, and the landlord had him led out into the street again. Verily "the way of the transgressor is hard."

THE steamer Julia arrived at the Cascades on Friday too late to return that night, and in consequence of the darkness laid there until the following morning. The high winds on the upper Columbia had prevented the arrival of the steamer at Celilo, consequently there was no connection above the Dalles.

QUICK WORK.—A fight occurred in the city on Saturday evening, between a couple of "fast youngsters," in which one of them received a pretty sore head, and the other a fine of $25 and costs before Recorder McCoy. All of which occurred between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock P. M.

WHEAT.—The steamer Senator started from Oregon City on Saturday with fifty tons of freight mostly wheat for Milwaukie. She brought forty passengers, most of whom arrived at Canemah on the Onward, just before her departure.

A heavily loaded truck was broken on Front street, Saturday. By keeping too near the side walk to avoid the rotten planking of the street, a wheel struck an awning post at the Vancouver Brewery, and the consequence was a general smash up.

THE bark Helen W Almy, is to leave on Wednesday, she will take a large lot of apples and the prospect is that the supply will be materially reduced, of those on hand for shipment.

STEAMER EXPECTED.—The steamship Panama, which sailed from San Francisco on last Saturday evening, for Portland, is expected to arrive to-morrow. She brings a host of passengers.

THE steamer John H. Couch, Capt Holman arrived from Astoria on Saturday evening, her decks well lined with passengers. We understand there is quite a spirited rivalry growing up on that route and passengers are carried at one dollar each either way between this city and Monticello. [illegible] this morning for Astoria, and will [illegible] have the bark Industry [illegible]

SAD CASUALTIES.—On Wednesday last a little son of M P Gillam at the Dalles was drowned, by falling into a spring near the city. In the same neighborhood on the following Friday an infant girl daughter of Mrs Walker was terribly burned about the breast and face during a short absence of the mother. The father of the child is up in the Boise country, having left his wife and four children to pass the summer at the Dalles.

WILLAMETTE STEAMERS.—We received a telegram yesterday from G A Pease Master of the steamer Enterprise, stating that his steamer would leave Canemah to-morrow for Eugene City (Tuesday, March 8th,) on the arrival of the Senator from Portland.

THE KOOTENAI.—By a private letter from Walla Walla we learn that the new mines on the Kootenay are beginning to attract considerable attention in that quarter and a great many are changing their course from Boise to Kootenay.

DELEGATES TO THE COUNTY CONVENTION.—The following are delegates to the County Convention from the precincts designated:

Willamette—Andrew J Pullen William Lovo
Sandy—David Powell, R P Wilmot
Multnomah 1st—Caleb Richie Mr Wolfe
2d C H Hall, Mr Hobson

U S DISTRICT COURT.—The United States District Court, Hon M P Deady Justice, will commence its session this morning at ten o'clock.

COUNTY COURT.—County Court, Judge P A Marquam presiding, will commence the March term to-day, at the Court House. The business will be principally probate matters.

THE THEATRE Saturday night was good. Mrs Leslie is deserving of especial praise for her excellent singing. The admirable play of the "Octoroon" is to be produced this evening.

LOOK OUT.—Officers are on the watch for teamsters, and others, doing business without the necessary license.

Samaritan Lodge No. 2, I. O. of O. F.—Meets every Wednesday Evening at 7 o'clock, in Stark's building, third story opposite the Dennison House. Members of the order are invited to attend.

LEE'S ENCAMPMENT!

Located on the Old Emigrant Road across the Blue Mountains via UMATILLA LANDING and LA GRANDE, on the SHORTEST and BEST Route from the Columbia River to the BOISE AND OWYHEE MINES!
and the ONLY ROUTE practicable at all Seasons.
MEACHAM BROTHERS,

ENCOURAGED by the very liberal patronage of the Traveling Public have made EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS at the above well known place for the accommodation of patrons, and have perfected arrangements for a supply of the best in the market for the table.
Also a constant supply of Hay and Grain at Reasonable Rates.

Travelers are assured that the Road across the Mountains on this Route is well broken for Teams—both Wagons and Sleighs passing daily—and that it will be kept in traveling condition. also that great improvement has been made on the Mountain portion of this route, by out-offs and changes, so as to avoid most of the hills and muddy ravines and shortening distance, &c.
Ample arrangements have been made for the accommodation of the traveling public all the way from Umatilla Landing to Boise via Franklin's Switzer's Willow Springs (Foot of the Blue Mountains) Lee's Encampment La Grande and thence on either road to Boise and Owyhee Mines, in no instance exceeding 14 miles between stations.
P S—We hold ourselves responsible for the assertion that this is the SHORTEST BEST and MOST PRACTICABLE ROUTE TO THE MINES.

Miles O'Reilly on the "Naygurs."

Some tell us 'tis a burning shame
To make the naygurs fight;
An' that the thrade of bein' kilt
Belongs but to the white;
But as for me, upon my sowl!
So liberal are we here,
I'll let Sambo be murdered in place of myself
On every day in the year!
On every day in the year, boys,
And every hour in the day,
The right to be kilt I'll divide wid him,
And divil a word I'll say.

In battle's wild commotion
I shouldn't at all object
If Sambo's body should stop a ball
That was coming for me direct;
And the prod of a southern bagnet,
So liberal are we here,
I'll resign and let Sambo take it
On every day in the year!
On every day in the year, boys,
An' wid none of your nasty pride,
All my right in a Southern bagnet prod
Wid Sambo I'll divide.

The men who object to Sambo,
Should take his place and fight;
And it's better to have a naygur's hue
Than a liver that's wake an' white.
Though Sambo's black as the ace of spades,
His finger a thrigger can pull,
And his eye runs straight on the barrel sights,
From under his thatch of wool.
So hear me all, boys, darlings,
Don't think I'm tippin' you chaff,
The right to be killed I'll divide wid him,
And give him the largest half!

The Long Night.

BY FREDERICK WARD SAUNDERS.

We had weathered Cape Horn, made the greater part of our northing, and under a cloud of canvas, with a spanking breeze, were rapidly approaching our place of destination. Mr. Brady, the second mate, was attempting to walk a crack between the quarter deck planks. Having watched him until it became evident that the feat would remain unaccomplished, I determined to get him into his story telling mood. Going over to the weather side of the quarter deck, I accosted him:

"Well, Mr. Brady," said I, "in another month from this, I suppose we shall be coming over this same spot, homeward bound."

"You may," he replied, "be coming this way, but I shan't. I intend to leave, and try another craft when we get into Valpy," (sailor for Valparaiso.) "I don't believe in staying too long by one ship,—get too well known."

"But you may not be able to get a mate's berth," I continued. "Isn't it possible all the vessels in port may be supplied? In that case I suppose you will return with us."

"No fear of their all being supplied. Why bless your heart, times have so changed from what they were a few years ago, when if a man once got a chance as a mate of a vessel, he stuck to her as long as one plank held to another. If I leave, of course the ship will be wanting another second mate, which will be supplied by some discontented chap from on board one of the other vessels; that will leave a vacancy, into which I shall slip; that's the way it's done, you see. Now, in my grandfather's time, no one ever thought of leaving a ship until he was turned out; but it wasn't an easy thing to turn my grandfather out of a vessel. He staid by one ship eight years after the owners had disobarged him, and they couldn't get rid of him at any price. My grandfather had a genius for getting into scrapes, but then he was equally good at getting out of them—"

"Most of your stories seem to relate to your grandfather," said I, interrupting him.—"Wasn't your father a sailor, also?"

"Why, yes," he continued; "he was a sailor, of course, but he couldn't hold a candle to my grandfather. It is a little singular, but it sometimes happens so in families, and it has always been so in ours. I mean the smart and really remarkable men only come every second generation."

"That is to say, your grandfather being the last, you are the next remarkable man."

"Well, ahem!—yes, you are not far out of the way. But, as I was saying, my grandfather, with all his good qualities, had some few faults, or what at that time were so considered—he would never leave a bottle while there was a drop left, and he was no ways famous for telling the truth. But to offset that, he was no ways bigoted in the matter of religion. I don't believe he ever saw the inside of a church, except such time as he was being married; and another little thing that used to cause him some trouble—if he saw anything he wanted, he was bound to have it by hook or by crook, no matter to whom it chanced to belong, and there was no end of the money the owners had to pay to get him out of difficulty occasioned by such little frolics.

"Having served a pretty long apprenticeship before the mast and in the minor offices, he was promoted to a chief mate's berth on board a West India trader sailing out of Londonderry, and for a time everything went on smoothly. The captain liked him, for he was a good sailor, and took a deal of work off his hands; the owners liked him because he was a prompt, go-ahead chap, and stopped at nothing—and many's the heap of sayings they made over and above their regular profit on what he smuggled for them.

"The owners were willing to put up with all my grandfather's little peccadilloes, but there was one thing they would not put up with. For some reason or other, every trip he made to the West Indies, the cargo would fall short two or three hundred pounds. If it had only happened once or twice, they would have passed it over as a mistake; but occuring every voyage, they began to think it might be accounted for in some other way, and informed the captain and mate that they should hold them responsible for whatever loss there might be in future.

"The captain growled and protested, and my grandfather smashed the third commandment all to flinders, but it made no difference, the owners were firm, and they had to make the best of it. But this arrangement had no effect at all, for the next trip, the cargo fell short more than ever, and the owners began to get their backs up.

"It was the same in those times as it is at present, the chief mate had charge of receiving and delivering the cargo; and strange as it may appear, they began to suspect my grandfather, and intimated to him that if they was any more deficiency, they would be obliged to dispense with his valuable services. But as if to convince them how unjust were their suspicions, not only the freight, but provisions, spare rigging, and everything else fell short the next time. The owners, however, couldn't see how that proved his innocence, so they told him, at once they didn't want him any longer in their employ.

"It was an easy thing to say that they didn't want him, but a very different affair to get rid of a lad of my grandfather's complexion. Ships were not plenty in those days, and a mate's berth was not to be had every day for the asking. Neither were men who were qualified for mates as numerous as they might have been; so there would be difficulty on both sides—for him to get another situation, and for them to fill his place; and he took the best care that they should find it uncommonly difficult.

"My grandfather had lots of friends in the town—in fact, he was on friendly terms with everybody except the police; accordingly all who would have applied for the vacant berth either held back from good will towards him, or were frightened out of it by some rather broad-shouldered threats that were knocking about among my grandfather's chums. So by the time the ship was ready for sea, the owners, in despair of finding any one to take his place, were obliged either to keep the vessel in port, or allow him to make another voyage.

"My grandfather was highly delighted with the success of his plan, and thought no doubt he would be able to accomplish the same the next voyage. But the owners had quite another idea; they were resolved that he should not go in the ship again at any price, and accordingly sent over to Greenock for a little red-headed Scotchman, one Sandy McDonald, a sort of relative of one of the owners—you know how it is with these Scotch, if they can claim any connexion whatever, it's all the same as if they were brothers, like the links of a cable—well, as I was saying, he was a sort of one horse cousin of theirs, and they were determined that he should have the berth the very next voyage, and that there should be no trouble about the matter, they kept him waiting for the ship to come in.

"My grandfather was taken considerably aback, when upon his arrival he learned the state of affairs; but though somewhat bothered, he did not despair of making things come round right before it was time to sail again. Having loaded the ship, it was of course his duty to see her discharged; this occupied some two or three weeks, and he made the most of the opportunity to worry himself into the good graces of Sandy. He pretended to have taken a wonderful liking for him, and did his utmost to initiate him into his new berth, explaining and showing, until Sandy became as well acquainted with the ship as if he had sailed in her a dozen years; it was Sandy here, and Sandy there, until the innocent little Scotchman was quite won over, and notwithstanding the hard stories he had heard concerning him (which were of course all false), he came to the conclusion that, whatever my grandfather might have been in the West Indies he was little short of a saint in Londonderry."

The time drew near for the ship to sail, and still my grandfather was in doubt as to what course he should pursue to get rid of Sandy; he couldn't employ forcible means, and as for tricks, the Scotchman had been cautioned by the owners, and was constantly on his guard. Time passed on till the ship was ready; the clearance papers were obtained from the Custom House, and everything was in readiness to haul into the stream with the morning tide. My grandfather was wild with excitement; he had made up his mind to go into the ship, and go he would. All at once an idea struck him; Sandy and himself both stopped at the same tavern—a great old-fashioned rattle trap of a house, with more ells, wings and gables than you will find in a modern country village. Now my grandfather was mighty thick and great friends with a smart little chambermaid belonging to the house. Having got the idea into his head, it didn't take him long to communicate it to, and make a confederate of the girl. With her assistance everything was arranged; she was to pretend, when Sandy wished to retire, that having understood that he would remain on board the ship, she had given his room to another person, and the only vacant bed remaining was in a double-bedded room, one of which was occupied by my grandfather, while the room itself was to be in an out of the way gable of the rambling old tavern, which was seldom used. So much was to be the part of the play in which the girl was to act; the rest was to be done by my grandfather. But the sly baggage had an eye to her own interest, (as girls are apt to have,) and played a rather stronger game than was anticipated.

(To be concluded.)

BUCHTEL & CARDWELL'S

PICTURES ARE THE BEST IN OREGON

HELMBOLD'S Genuine Preparation.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATE Compound Fluid

EXTRACT BUCHU,

A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY

FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL

AND

DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCEROUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Universal Lassitude of the	Muscular System,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
Pallid Countenance.

These symptom if allowed to go, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,

IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion that

THE CONSTITUTION,

once affected by Organic Weakness,

Requires the Aid of Medicine, to strengthen and invigorate the system, which invariably does.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical.

FEMALES! FEMALES!! FEMALES!!

OLD OR YOUNG,

Single, Married or contemplating Marriage

IN MANY AFFECTIONS PECULIAR TO FEMALES, the Extract of Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Schirrous State of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the Sex. whether arising from Indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE!

No Family should be without it.

TAKE NO MORE BALSAM, MERCURY, OR UNPLEASANT MEDICINE FOR UNPLEASANT AND DANGEROUS DISEASES.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

AND

HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

CURES SECRET DISEASES

In all their Stages; At Little Expense;
Little or no Change in Diet; No Inconvenience,
AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

Who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

And it is certain to have the desired effect in Diseases for which it is recommended.

Evidence of the most Responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines.

Certificates of Cures

From Eight to Twenty Years standing, with names known to science and fame.

"PHYSICIANS," PLEASE "NOTICE."

We make no "secret" of "Ingredients." HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU is composed of Buchu, Cubebs, Juniper Berries, selected with great care by a competent Druggist, Prepared in vacuo, by H. T. HELMBOLD, Practical and Analytical Chemist, and Sole Manufacturer of Helmbold's Genuine Preparations.

AFFIDAVIT.

Personally appeared before me, an Alderman of the city of Philadelphia, H. T. HELMBOLD, who being duly sworn, doth say his preparations contain no narcotic, no mercury, or other injurious drugs, but are purely vegetable.

H. T. HELMBOLD.

Sworn and subscribed before me, this 23d day of November, 1854.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough,

SPRINGFIELD, MISS.,

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people. HIRAM CONKLIN

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs, less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and

WEST MANCHESTER, PA.,

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

HENRY L. PARKS,

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, MONROE CO., Iowa, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY,

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months [illegible] under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, [illegible] and we could get her much relief. She was [illegible] failing, until [illegible] this city, where we have [illegible] advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless [illegible] kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from [illegible]. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free [illegible]

Yours, with gratitude [illegible]

ORLANDO SHELBY,

Consumptives, do not despair [illegible] have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all round [illegible] the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.
